It's no secret that I love vampires! I'm obsessed! And if you love vampires too, you'll love this vampire styling mini-book that is being released in November this year! I created this mini-book with the help of my good friends at Spellbinders. I can't wait to show you how easy it is to make! It's a great way to go back to basics with your cutting and creating. Try it out and create some lovely mini books – you can even embellish them with your own embellishments! Be sure to leave your entries for the Lifestyle Décor Blog Hop on this post by midnight Saturday! You'll find the link on my right-hand sidebar under Blogroll! HAPPY CUTTING! I'd like to add that I've tested Spellbinders dies with three different methods of cutting the paper. Method 1 – Using the upper and lower slits in the die, cut a “V” pattern. Method 2 – Using the “combs”, cut the design from the left and right sides of the die. Method 3 – Using the “sharpie”. All three methods worked equally as well and the design on the paper was fully adhered to the vinyl. After cutting, the design and cuts on each vinyl sheet are sealed with a high-temp heat gun, after which you emboss the design and cut out the window. I chose to use the “Sharpie marker” instead of a die cut. If you need to cut a “U” shape, I found that it's easier to cut two “Us” in the correct orientation (side-by-side) and then emboss and cut out the window, than cutting one “U” in the wrong orientation and then embossing and cutting the window. Before I show the finished project, I have to explain some of the processes used for this project. For Method 1, I used my Crafts Fusion vinyl sheets. For Method 2, I used one Spellbinders decorative vinyl sheet and one Decorative Film backing. The backing film protects the vinyl and allows you to cut it out with ease. For Method 3, I used one Spellbinders decorative

Conceptualization and measurement of quality of life in elderly people with chronic illness. This paper describes the application of a conceptual model to a cross-sectional study of elderly people with chronic illness, used to examine the effect of gender, age, marital status, and illness-related variables on people's quality of life (QOL). Item responses were subjected to confirmatory factor analysis (CFA) using LISREL 7.8 software and the model performed well, with fit indices suggesting satisfactory data-model fit. A two-stage methodology was used to examine the impact of illness-related variables on quality of life in people with chronic illness. Only illness-related variables significantly influencing QOL were retained in a final model. The influence of age and gender on QOL was most pronounced, with older and male participants achieving significantly lower QOL. The findings are discussed in relation to the effects of the relationship with the illness on people's life. La redacción quería publicarlo pero no tenía acceso a ella, porque los medios tradicionales no tenían el acceso a Internet, como hoy se ve. Al hacer los ajustes necesarios en el texto, descubrimos algo sorprendente, donde se puede ver difundir un truco escolar para realizar un acoso sexual y una vida urbana en la que se busca una mujer sin atención a la seguridad y un sistema empresarial altamente viciado. En la grabación se ve lo siguiente: en una callecita pueden verse muchas frutas y verduras en el supermercado y al ig
