in the following sample code, you can find all of the code that is needed to set up the communication of the module. there are some basic functions that can be called from any application, this includes a set of functions to configure the bluetooth device. just got it working!!!!!!!!!!! i was so excited i started dancing around my apartment and also giggled. while doing that i was able to use it in the car. i fixed my code in the car so that it will not get fiddled again on start up. ...it wasnt all that hard, but i may have been the only one to have the original 32c font.. i would start by sending an email to your blaupunkt dealer (or manufacturer) as this problem is very common when a factory reset is done on a radio that has been repaired. the newest versions of radio's are programmed to accept the 4 digit code at the front of the display in place of the original code. it may be a simple fix. i'm not really sure. i just loaded into the unit and it didn't have the qr code thing on it. i thought maybe the new car had the new version so i loaded the old version that i had. when i entered the code i got nothing and the radio didn't do anything. when i opened the unit

it said that i could go into "recovery process" and i didn't know what that was. i'm assuming that this code was made for the old version and that's why it didn't work. after examining the pros and cons and understanding the advantages over basic radio codes, we have identified that no other software has the ability to make the car radio compatible with android. with the support of our german customers, we have been able to activate more than 20,000 android users to enjoy android auto on their blaupunkt radios.
