The activists, who marched in silence for 30 minutes, are holding a "die-in" and demanding Border Patrol reform and an end to "inhumane treatment" by the agency. The group - comprised of people from Mexico, Ecuador, Colombia, Peru, Peru, Colombia, Honduras, Guatemala, Nicaragua and El Salvador - believe there is "no justification for inhumane treatment at the borders". The activists are holding the demonstration on the South El Monte, California, border near the Campo Marte compound, where the previous occupant, Luis

Bracamontes, is serving multiple life sentences for killing two people. He was paroled from a prison in California after a judge refused to deport him back to Mexico, where he faces a separate trial on murder charges. Bracamontes was captured after entering the US from Mexico in a stolen Dodge Ram pickup truck. During the demonstration the group released some birds and balloons inside the camp - meant to resemble the US flag - and held signs calling for the end to family separations, gun control and an end to deportation. A sign called for an end to deportations held by an immigration activist group at a protest on the border with Mexico (Reuters) Another sign read: "No more separation families". The group says that on average the El Paso sector of the US border with Mexico separates 1,100 children from their parents per month. A Border Patrol union claims that the number is 800 per month. The activists say that more than 50,000 undocumented immigrants were taken from their families last year alone. They are calling for an end to family separations, which they say is a “tragedy”. The protestors are also calling for an end to the use of tear gas and rubber bullets and are

In a process of producing a semiconductor device, a gate electrode is often formed by a damascene process in which wiring is formed in a trench formed in an insulating layer covering a semiconductor substrate. The gate electrode is generally formed through a metal gate formation process. The metal gate formation process includes forming a metal gate electrode within a trench formed in the insulating layer by a CVD process. In the metal gate formation process, the CVD process is performed by introducing a metal compound as a raw material into a vacuum chamber including a substrate. In order to form a metal film which serves as a gate electrode within a trench, a metal compound of the metal is selectively used to form a metal gate electrode on the insulating layer. As a technique which forms 79a2804d6b
